Art Unit: 2185

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on April 11, 2002, has been entered.

2. The application/patent being disclaimed has been improperly identified since the number used to identify the patent being disclaimed is incorrect. The correct number is 5,752,011. The incorrect patent number of 5,752,001 has been used throughout the terminal disclaimer and should be corrected throughout the disclaimer.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 2185

4. Claims 34, 42-46, 59-64, 66, 67, 70, 71, 73, and 74 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pippin (5,838,578) in view of Neal et al (5,483,102).

Pippin teaches a computer comprising a clock (Fig. 9 elements 930, 945), processor 905, temperature sensor 110, and fan 955 wherein the frequency of the clock and/or speed of a fan varies with the temperature of the processor (column 2 lines 31-60).

Although Pippin may not specifically indicate the reduction of the clock frequency when supplemental thermal management is required even after the cooling fan has been activated, this is taught by Neal et al (see the abstract) wherein the clock frequency is varied depending on processor temperature in combination with cooling of the processor by a fan. Since the patents both are concerned with temperature control of a processor, it would be obvious to one skilled in the art to use the teaching of Neal et al in the system of Pippin.

5. Claims 35-41, 65, and 72 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pippin (5,838,578) in view of Neal et al (5,483,102) and Ko (5,457,766 - cited by applicant).

Pippin and Neal et al are cited for reasons given above.

Although neither Pippin nor Neal et al teach the variation in speed of the fan depending on the temperature, this is taught by Ko wherein an electronic device is cooled by a fan whose speed is controlled depending on the temperature of the device (see the abstract). It would be obvious to one skilled in the art that the teaching of variable fan speed by Ko could be used in the system of Pippin and Neal et al because these patents are all directed to the temperature control of an electronic device.

6. Claims 12-16, 22-27, 47-58 are allowed.

7. Claims 68 and 69 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the application prior to the entry of the submission under 37 CFR 1.114 and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the application prior to entry under 37 CFR 1.114. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action after the filing of a request for continued examination and the submission under 37 CFR 1.114. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
